Love this! This could be our little tool for clients on late adds in this part of TX.

Just need to be able to swear in the witness.

AI really needs to be a part of what we can do/offer in some/various forms.

Hi Amy,

I spoke with Trey on the phone. So they are capturing the record using AI. They run their audio through their own app they have. They are still in the beginning phases. He said they can create their own vocabulary too and run it through the app. They are also working on speaker identification. It seems pretty promising with the TX shortage. He said we can send them example audio and he'll run it through and send it back so we can see what it is like.

He also told me he has been receiving some serious back lash. Lexitas even reached out to him and told him to tone down his advertising (lol – some gossip).

He sent me a link attached for the basic demo.

Thanks,

Molly Collins

An advertisement for Depo-Note court reporting. The background features a blue and white abstract design with a faint image of a dog. The text is overlaid in large, bold, white and blue fonts. The main headline reads "A New Way To Capture The Record" in blue, followed by "Depo-Note" in large white letters. Below this, in white text, are the benefits: "5 Day Turnaround", "Same Day Rough Draft", and "More Cost Effective Than Traditional Court Reporting". At the bottom, in red text, is the statement "Transcript Certified by a licensed Texas Report".

Molly – I saw this on Linked In. Can you please check with them about this service and get rates.

How are they capturing the record?
